REPORT.

SESSION 1862–63.

STUDENTS.

The number of Pupils in the College during the Session 1862–63 was 784: viz. 416 Students, including 20 attending the Evening Classes of Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy; and 368 Boys in the Junior School. The Students of the Faculty of Medicine were 183, of whom 43 were new Students: the Students of the Faculty of Arts and Laws were 233, including the 20 attending the Evening Classes. The new Students in the General Classes were 115. The Students of Analytical Chemistry in the Birkbeck Laboratory were 8. The highest number of Boys in the Junior School in any one Term was 313.

The receipt for the Session 1862–63 from Students and Pupils for Fees, and Library Deposits (£55 19*s.* 6*d.*), omitting fees for Hospital Practice, was £10,877 9*s.*, and £19 10*s.* received and accounted for in the previous Session—£2809 14*s.* for attendance on Medical Classes, £2724 5*s.* 6*d.* for attendance on the Classes of the Faculty of Arts and Laws, and £5307 on account of the Junior School. The share of Professors and Masters, exclusive of the annual augmentations to the Professors of Natural Philosophy and Comparative Anatomy, and of the interest of the Patriot Fund paid to the Professors of the Evening Classes for attendance at reduced fees by Schoolmasters and Ushers, was £8405 19*s.* 6*d.* The College portion was £2435. The sum of £1050 11*s.*, received for Clinical Instruction at the Hospital, was paid to the Hospital Committee towards the support of the Charity.

The entries for the current Session up to this period are—Medical Students, 147, of whom 39 are new Students; new entries to the Hospital, 38; Students of the Faculty of Arts and Laws, 173 (of whom new Students, 94), making, together with 11 not above enumerated of 13 attending the Evening Classes of Latin, Greek, Mathematics, and Natural Philosophy, 184. The number of Boys in the Junior School this Term is 318. At the corresponding period of last year the number was 307.

The Classes of the Faculty of Arts in which there is an increase of Students this Session, are Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Sanskrit, English, and French. The Class of French is larger than it has been in any former year, and includes 48 Students. That of Sanskrit has increased from 9, which it had never before exceeded, to 21. The rest of the Classes of the Faculty, with one or two exceptions, have about an average of entries.

Recent regulations of the Examining Bodies for the Diplomas and Licences in Medicine and Surgery, which require that young men shall have passed a preliminary examination in subjects of general Education before they enter on their professional studies, have caused a decrease in the number of Medical Students throughout the Kingdom; and the Classes of the Medical Faculty of the College, this year as well as the last, have felt the effect in common with other Schools: they are surpassed in number of entries by two Schools only.

COLLEGE PRIZES.

The two Andrews Scholarships of £85 each, of October 1863, were awarded—the Scholarship for proficiency in Classics to Mr. Augustus Samuel Wilkins*, of Brixton; the Scholarship for proficiency in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy to Mr. Numa Edward Hartog, of London. The Examiners in both cases reported to the Council that two Candidates were nearly equal, and that in the case of Mathematics a second Examination had been necessary. The Council, having in hand a fund of lapsed Andrews Scholarships, awarded a Second or Extraordinary Scholarship in Classics, of £60, to Mr. James S. Cluff, of Kildare, and a Second or Extraordinary Scholarship in Mathematics to Mr. Philip Magnus*, of London.

The Ricardo Scholarship in Political Economy, of £20 a year for three years, was obtained by Mr. Lindsey Middleton Aspland, of Hackney. The Examiners reported that Mr. Laing's positive proficiency would have been worthy of the Scholarship, and therefore reported him entitled to commendation.

The Jews' Commemoration Scholarship of £15 a year, tenable for two years, was awarded to Mr. William Coxeter, of Abingdon. Of the Students of the Faculty of Arts of not more than one year's standing in the College, Mr. Coxeter was reported by the Faculty to be most distinguished for general proficiency and good conduct.

The Prize offered by the Council for the best English Essay on an Historical, Biographical, or Speculative Subject, was awarded to Mr. William Stanley Jevons, M.A., of Manchester. The subject proposed by the Senate was "Climate—its Effects on Nations." Professor Masson, M.A., was the Examiner. A similar Prize has been offered for the current Session; the subject "How can the Institutions and Laws of a Country at any time be used in evidence of the History of antecedent periods of which there is no contemporary record?"

The Reading-Room Society's Prize of £5, for the best Latin Prose Essay, was awarded to Mr. Augustus Samuel Wilkins. The subject proposed by the Senate was "What were the Causes which favoured the Transition at Rome from a Republican to an Imperial Constitution?" Professor Key, M.A., was the Examiner. Mr. Wilkins obtained the corresponding Prize last year. A similar Prize has been offered for the current Session; the subject "Atheniensium veterum et Americanorum qui hodie sunt, pariter omnia in republica libere et populariter gerentium, ingenium et mores inter se comparantur."

As regards the Medical Faculty, the Atkinson Morley Surgical Scholarship of £45 per annum, tenable for three years, was awarded to Mr. Thomas D. Griffiths, of Dryslwyn-fuwr, Carmarthenshire.

The Longridge Prize of £40, of the Session 1863, for general proficiency in Medicine and Surgery, was awarded to Mr. Alexander Bruce, of London.

The Filliter Exhibition in Pathological Anatomy, of £30, was conferred on Mr. Alexander Bruce.

JUNIOR SCHOOL.

In the course of last Session several important measures modifying the constitution and conduct of the Junior School were, after mature consideration at frequent Meetings, recommended by the special Committee of the Council, with the full concurrence of the Head Master, and adopted by the Council. Among those, the most considerable were the appointment of Mr. Case to be Vice-Master, the establishment of a separate Preparatory School for Boys between

* Mr. Wilkins and Mr. Magnus obtained similar Scholarships last year.

Seven and Eleven Years of age, and arrangements for more effective teaching in Experimental Physical Science.

The Report of the same Committee of the result of recent inquiries informs the Council that, as far as can be judged from the short experience since September, it appears that the above-mentioned changes are likely to produce much benefit. The increased superintendence brought to bear upon the School by the Vice-Master has produced much good effect. The wishes of the Council to secure for Experimental Philosophy a higher proportional place in the aggregate teaching of the Junior School seems in course of being realized, and the Preparatory School has proved as successful as it was reasonable to expect at the outset. In the present Term it consists of 23 Boys. A large proportion of the ablest Masters have lent assistance in the preparatory department. The arrangements of detail necessary for maintaining effective separation of these young beginners from the other Boys have been found to work in a satisfactory manner.

The Committee, after considering Reports from the Head Master, from Professor Malden, from the Vice-Master, and each of the Assistant Masters, were able to communicate to the Council that the testimony borne by all the Masters to the general good behaviour and discipline of the Scholars continued to be highly satisfactory, and that the diligence displayed by them generally, and the amount of effective work performed, had been creditable to the School.

The former Pupils of the School who in the College Examinations obtained Prizes and Certificates of Honour were :—Mr. Numa Edward Hartog, the Andrews Scholarship of £85 in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy (1863); Mr. Philip Magnus, the Second or Extraordinary Scholarship (£60) in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy (1863); Mr. Magnus also gained the Prize in the Class of Hebrew, and the Prize in the Class of Philosophy of Mind and Logic; Mr. Hartog also gained the third Prize in the Class of Comparative Grammar, the Prize in the Higher Senior Class of Mathematics, the third Certificate in the Senior Class of Latin, the third Certificate in the Senior Class of Greek, the first Prize in the Senior Class of English, the Prize in the Senior Class of German, and the Prize in the Senior Mathematical Class of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy; Mr. William Coxeter, the Jews' Commemoration Scholarship of £15, tenable for two years, the fifth Certificate in the Higher Junior Class of Mathematics, the first Prize in the Junior Class of Latin, the first Prize in the Junior Class of Greek, the second Prize in the Junior Class of English, the Prize in the Junior Class of French; Mr. John Hawthorn Kitson, the fifth Certificate in the Class of Comparative Grammar, the second Prize in the Class of Geology, and the second Prize in the Class of Mineralogy; Mr. Russell Forbes Carpenter, the first Prize in the Higher Junior Class of Mathematics, and the first Prize in the Experimental Class of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy; Mr. Joseph Estlin Carpenter, the second Prize in the Senior Class of Latin, the Prize in the Extra Class of Greek, and the first Prize in the Junior Mathematical Class of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy; Mr. William E. Mozley, the fifth Certificate in the Senior Class of Latin, and the second Prize in the Senior Class of Greek; Mr. Arundel Tagg, the first Prize in the Senior Class of Greek, and the Prize in the Class of the History of Moral Philosophy; Mr. George Walter Knox, the Gold Medal in the Class of Analytical Chemistry, the third Certificate in the Class of Philosophy of the Mind and Logic, and the second Certificate in the Class of History of Moral Philosophy; Mr. Lindsey Middleton Aspland, the Prize in the Class of Political Economy; Mr. George Franklin Browne, the second Prize in the Class of English Law.

Certificates of Honour were awarded to other former Pupils of the School, as follows:—To Mr. George S. Joseph, the fourth Certificate in the Class of Comparative Grammar, and the third Certificate in the Extra Class of Greek; to Mr. Henry Godefroy, the fifth Certificate in the Class of Comparative Grammar, and the third Certificate in the Class of Political Economy; to Mr. Arthur C. Ranyard, the third Certificate in the Higher Senior Class of Mathematics, the second Certificate in the Senior Mathematical Class of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy, and the third Certificate in the Class of Geology; to Mr. John Sterling Ainsworth, the fifth Certificate in the Senior Class of Latin, the fourth Certificate in the Extra Class of Greek; to Mr. Claude Phillips, the sixth Certificate in the Senior Class of Latin, the second Certificate in the Senior Class of English, and the second Certificate in the Senior Class of French; to Mr. Robert Stains, the fourth Certificate in the Senior Class of Greek, and the second Certificate in the Junior Class of French; to Mr. Edward H. PROFESSORSHIPS.

For the vacancy in the Professorship of Latin, occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Newman, to take place at the close of the Session, as announced in last year's Report, the Council had to make a selection from several eminently qualified applicants. The Candidates were Ten. After a very careful comparison of the testimonials by the Senate, it appeared to the Council that preference was due to Mr. John Robert Seeley, Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge. Mr. Seeley on taking his first Degree at Cambridge in 1857 was placed with two others at the head of the Classical Tripos, and soon after was declared Senior Medalist of the year. Gentlemen who themselves occupy a high position in the literary world testified to Mr. Seeley's eminent scholarship, to the accuracy and extent of his classical knowledge, and to his power in exhibiting that knowledge.

The changes in the Professors of the Faculty of Medicine and in Medical Officers at the Hospital, mentioned in the last Report, left a vacancy among the Assistant-Physicians. The Office was filled up by the appointment of Dr. Ringer, whose qualifications are referred to at length in last year's Report on mentioning his appointment to the Chair of Materia Medica. The Council have received with regret notice of Dr. Ringer's resignation of the Office of Resident Medical Officer at the Hospital, occasioned by his being appointed Assistant-Physician to the Hospital for Sick Children in Great Ormond Street. The usual measures for procuring a successor are in progress.

The Council, in consideration of the long and meritorious services rendered to the Hospital by Mr. Henry Thompson, who has held the Office of Assistant-Surgeon since the year 1856, have, on the recommendation of the Medical Committee of the Hospital, appointed him Surgeon to the Hospital with the care as well of the Out-Patients as of In-Patients. At the same time it was found expedient to make an addition to the Surgical Staff of the Hospital by electing a new Assistant-Surgeon; and the Council, after taking the usual steps for obtaining Candidates and ascertaining their respective qualifications, appointed to that Office Mr. Matthew Berkeley Hill, who for a second year was fulfilling the duties of Demonstrator of Anatomy in the College.

Dr. Parkes, formerly Special Professor of Clinical Medicine, and Dr. Walshe, who recently retired from the Professorship of the Principles and Practice of Medicine, have, on the invitation of the Council, at the instance of the Senate, assumed each the title of Emeritus Professor.

DONATIONS.

At the commencement of the present Session the Council received a gratifying proof of the estimation in which the opportunities for Collegiate education afforded by the College to the Subjects of Dependencies of the British Crown are held by natives of India. At their Session in November a Gift to the College of £3000 by Messrs. Cama and Co., Parsee Merchants, was presented by Sir Edward Ryan, and a letter addressed to him by the Donors was read as follows:—

"21 Gresham House, London,
Nov. 2nd, 1863.

"Dear Sir,—We are desirous of testifying to the advantages afforded by University College to our Countrymen, enabling them to obtain a College education without interference with the religious creed inherited by them from their ancestors; and we beg to accompany our acknowledgment of the enlightened and tolerant spirit of the founders and directors of such a noble Institution with a Donation of £3000 to the Funds of the College, to be applied in such manner as the Council think fit. We have great pleasure in sending our Cheque for the amount through you, knowing the kind interest you have taken in our Countrymen, of which we have seen so many proofs since our first establishment in this Metropolis in 1855, and we remain, &c.,

"Cama and Co."

"To the Right Hon. Sir Edward Ryan."

A Donation of £1000 for the Benefit of the Hospital had been sent by Messrs. Cama a short time before through Professor Walshe.

It was resolved unanimously,—"That the Council of University College acknowledge with gratitude and respect the generous Donation of £3000 presented to the College by Messrs. Cama and Co. That the value of this munificent present is further enhanced in the eyes of the Council by Messrs. Cama's letter, intimating that the principle of imparting the best literary and scientific instruction to all Students without distinction of religious opinions which has been proclaimed and followed by University College, has been duly appreciated by intelligent natives of India. That the Council will apply this sum for the promotion of education in the College according to the enlightened spirit enjoined by Messrs. Cama's letter, with a full sense of the confidence reposed in them by Messrs. Cama as to the best means of accomplishing the object. That the Council at the same time hope that among the Students, for whose encouragement this sum will henceforward be applied, there may be found an increased number of youthful natives of India, prompted by the liberal proceeding and declaration of Messrs. Cama, to seek the advantage of literary and scientific education in London."

A further vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. Cama and Co. for their recent Donation of £1000 to the Hospital. And it was resolved,—"That a copy of the Votes be transmitted to Messrs. Cama and Co."

A constant friend of the College, Mr. James Yates, in the course of last Session gave a gratifying proof of interest in the Institution, and in the study of Natural Science, by presenting the Sum of £25 to be applied in further augmentation of the year's emoluments of the Professor of Geology and Mineralogy.

The Council have the pleasure of communicating to the Members of the College the generous offer of their Treasurer, Mr. Grote, to defray the expense of decorating a portion of the South Cloister of the College with representations of Homeric Scenes, in Mosaic, by the Baron de Triqueti. The Subjects will be chosen by Mr. Grote. That circumstance, and the fame of the Baron de Triqueti as a Sculptor and as an inventive and skilful Artist in Mosaic, inspire the Council with confidence that the work, when executed, will prove an interesting ornament to the College, appropriate to its character, and calculated to reflect honour on the Donor, the Artist, and the Institution.

The College is indebted to one of its original proprietors, Mr. James Dawson, of Wray Castle, Windermere, for the gift of a very choice collection of Medical works, consisting of 68 volumes, and comprising many magnificent standard works on Anatomy and Pathological Anatomy, with elaborate Copper-plate Illustrations, of dates from 1658 to 1837. Among the works are:—Les Œuvres d'Ambroise Paré, à Lyon, 1641, Vellum, 1 vol. fol. Fredericii Ruyschii Opera Omnia Anatomico-Medico-Chirurgica cum Figuris Æneis, Amstelodami, 1715–16, 1721, 1724, 4 vols. 4to. Anatomie Pathologique du Corps Humain, par I. Cruveilhier, à Paris, 1829–35, 2 vols. fol. Sull' Ernie: Memorie Anatomico-Chirurgiche di Antonio Scarpa, with 11 Copper-plate Engravings of great excellence: Pavia, 1819, 1 vol. fol. Hieronymi Fabricii ab Acquapendente Opera Chirurgica et de Chirurgicis Operationibus, Lugduni Bat. 1723.

FINANCES.

The Receipt and Expenditure on account of the last Session were both, with three trifling exceptions, of an ordinary character. The College portion of Fees paid by Students and Pupils of the School was £2435. The Dividends and Interest on funds not specially appropriated amounted to £1149 5*s.* 6*d.*, together £3584 5*s.* 6*d.* The Expenditure, exclusive of Professors' and Masters' portions of fees, and of payments provided for out of endowment funds, was £4396 7*s.* 3*d.*, leaving a deficit of £812 1*s.* 9*d.*

The accountants, on the other hand, in their College Fund account and balance-sheet, represent excess of Expenditure over Receipts for the year at the less sum of £507 12*s.* 6*d.*; but in arriving at that result, the following sums carried to accounts left open are not charged to the account of excess of expenditure over receipt, viz. £150, Professors' Augmentation, and £154 9*s.* 3*d.* expended in additions to the property or plant of the College, such as Books, Furniture, Stock of Birkbeck Laboratory, and Instruments for the Class of Practical Surgery. The receipt above referred to as applicable to general purposes was £280 less than last year; the expenditure was about £16 more.

This statement shows that the forebodings expressed in last year's Report at the prospect of the then current Session were fulfilled; and the Council have to regret that, although the appearances of the present Session are somewhat more favourable, it is but too certain that the revenue will again fall short of the expenditure. They cannot contemplate without much anxiety the continual encroachments on Capital which are thus occasioned, and they propose to give their early and serious attention to this subject.

The Donation of Messrs. Cama was received after the close of the Academical year to which the Financial papers now presented relate, and therefore is not noticed in the audited accounts.

THE HOSPITAL.

The determination come to last year by the Hospital Committee, with the approbation of the Council, to hold an Annual instead of a Biennial Festival in aid of the Funds of the Hospital, seems likely to be fully justified by the event. The Public Dinner, at which Lord Brougham presided in June last, was eminently successful; the collection on the occasion amounted to £3300, notwithstandiug the large amount of contributions which had been received during the preceding year. Her Majesty the Queen and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales graciously lent their aid. The donations in the course of the year reached the sum of £5600, including the gift of £1000 by Messrs. Cama, already mentioned, and one of £500 by a lady who desired to conceal her name. The result of the renewed exertions of the Hospital Committee was that, while the comforts of the inmates of the Hospital were continually increased, the debt was diminished by a sum of £400, and early in the present Session the Hospital Committee added to the invested funds, which in the preceding Session had received an increase of £300, the sum of £1000, the gift by Messrs. Cama and Co. The names of the numerous other donors, lists of which have been widely circulated, will be shortly republished in the Annual Report of the Hospital Committee. The Council, however, cannot omit here to express their gratification at the zeal with which the Students of the Medical Faculty assisted the efforts of the Committee to interest the public in behalf of the Hospital. By means of a system of Subscription Cards, set on foot by the Students, a sum exceeding £300 was raised. It deserves thankful notice also by the Council, that the Rev. Upton Richards, the Incumbent of All Saints' Church, and many other friends of the ladies of the All Saints' Home, have evinced by generous annual subscriptions and by donations, the interest which they take in the Institution. Of this, recent proof, in addition to many former ones, has been afforded by a collection of £85 at the All Saints' Church, in Margaret Street, at which the Bishop of Salisbury, at the instance of Mr. Upton Richards, preached on behalf of the Charity, on the 31st January last. His Lordship has complied with the request of the Council, that he would permit them to place his name on the list of Vice-Presidents.

The Council still find good reason for approving of the change in the system of nursing. All visitors and inquirers, as well as the Chaplain and the Physicians and Surgeons, concur in stating that the superintendence of the ladies has a very beneficial effect in promoting the comfort and well-being of the patients, and in imparting a tone of refinement and elevation to the social and moral character of the establishment.

They have pleasure in noticing, in conclusion, that the appearance of the wards has been much improved by the decoration of the walls with engravings and casts. And they take this opportunity of tendering their thanks to Messrs. Graves and Messrs. Day, as well as to the several Medical Officers who have contributed to this acceptable embellishment.

This year the Public Dinner will take place on Tuesday, the 12th April, at Willis's Rooms; Mr. Charles Dickens has kindly consented to preside. The Council look with confidence for the aid of the friends of the College on the occasion, and trust that their exertions and the appeal to the public will meet with success commensurate with the benefits which the Hospital confers on the poor suffering from injury or disease.

CHAS. C. ATKINSON,
Secretary.
